German Composer Flashes of Life Dies in Hospital

Felix von Weingartner, 78, Was Conservatory Head in Switzerland

(By The Associated Press)

New York—Two men forced a garage attendant into a back room early today and carted away the company safe.

The safe, the attendant told police, was empty.

Long Recess

New Orleans, La.—Twelve jurors were given a 10 minute recess in a wearying Federal condemnation suit—but the recess stretched out to 17½ hours.

One juror misunderstood, thought it was all over. A court attendant finally found him at his home.

Cell-ling Point

Atlanta—Atlanta street car and bus passengers have been favorably impressed by the attractive posters advertising the War Bond campaign.

Compliments reached local treasury department officials, who blushed when they recalled the artist. A few years back treasury agents committed him to the Atlanta Penitentiary—for counterfeiting.

Taking no Chances

Fort Leavenworth, Kas.—Lieutenant Ted O'Sullivan, former mid-west football and basketball official, and two fellow officers came abreast a newly arrived private.

The rookie saluted smartly, and then held up three fingers.

O'Sullivan stopped him to ask about the extra gesture.

"Well, Sir, I didn't know whether to salute once or three times, so I just held up a finger for each of you," he explained.

Prize Catch

Troy, Ill.—George Huesmann, veteran fisherman just back from Florida, says fishing is fine in those parts—but the catch is not all fish.

In fact, he asserted fishing for the finny variety is more often dropped in favor of fishing for fotsam of sunken vessels.

As a trophy of his fishing trip Huesmann has an 18-pound piece of crude rubber. He will offer it to his local tire-rationing board.

But He Did

Chicago—Noble McFarland, a hotel official, received a letter from a former patron who asked him to hunt up a book he had forgotten. It might be in his room or maybe he lost it in the lobby. The book, he told McFarland, was Robert J. Casey's "I Can't Forget."

Curious Discovery of

Dickens' Lore in London

Dickens' lore has been increased by a curious discovery connected with his early London home at 40 Doughty street, W. C. 1. The house bought 12 years ago by the Dickens Fellowship, was reopened recently by Dickens' daughter-in-law, Lady Dickens, 86 years old. It had been closed for repair and rearrangement, writes a correspondent to the London Times.

Law's Amendment Exempts Innocent Drivers of Autos

Albany, N. Y., May 9 (AP)—Innocent drivers in automobile accidents are exempted, a year after the mishap, from the required posting of future financial responsibility under an amendment to the state's safety-responsibility law enacted today.

The statute which became effective last January 1 required all drivers "involved" in an accident causing $25 or more damage to post responsibility proof through an insurance policy or bond. The provision, because of its stringency, was one of several which Governor Lehman said last year would require amendment.

Under the revision, a person claiming innocence will be exempted if he makes no voluntary payment of damages, if no suit is brought against him or if he obtains a judgment within a year—indicating guilt of another party—after the accident. In the interim he is required, however, to post a security which the State Motor Vehicle Commissioner fixes as the amount of damages for which he might be liable.

The money would be returned to him after the year.

The governor also approved a bill providing the Public Service corporations, the Federal government and other motor vehicle owners now exempted from the law must, however, report all accidents and disclose if other parties involved have insurance.

A third amendment exempts from loss of license during the investigation of an accident, owners or drivers filing evidence of insurance with the Motor Vehicle Commissioner. Under the original licensees of all drivers were required pending settlement of the case.

State personal income taxpayers in foreign military or naval service will have until six months after the war to file returns without interest or penalty under another new statute.

Other measures approved, bringing to 720 the new enactments: Require payment to the state of all municipal condemnation awards unclaimed for five years. The amount in excess of $75,000 will be used for planning of state construction projects to absorb post-war unemployment.

Provide dangerous weapons seized shall be destroyed or applied to national defense purposes by the commissioner of police in New York city and the superintendent of state police elsewhere in the state.

List Symptoms, Signs of Early Nutritional Fault

Early nutritional failure—early deficiency states—are probably far more prevalent among the population of the United States than is generally recognized, the subcommittee on medical nutrition, division of medical sciences, National Research Council, says in a report published in the Journal of the American Medical Association.

In the report are lists of the symptoms and signs suggestive of early deficiency states in infants and children and in adolescents and adults. The subcommittee warns that no symptoms or physical signs can be accepted as diagnostic of early nutritional failure. It says, however, that symptoms and signs "when verified by a competent physician and when other possible causes have been ruled out should be considered as significant indications."

Those symptoms in infants and children which parents or teachers might observe are as follows: Lack of appetite, failure to eat adequate amount, failure to gain steadily in weight, aversion to normal play, chronic diarrhea, inability to sit, pain on sitting and standing, poor sleeping habits, backwardness in school, repeated respiratory infection, abnormal intolerance of light and abnormal discharge of tears. The physical signs are bad posture and sores at angles of the mouth.

War Visits Coney And Dims Lights, But Not Devotees

Mustard Still Is on House, Hot Dogs Are 7 Cents but Subway Fare Still Is Nickel

New York, May 8 (AP)—War has come to Coney Island, the poor man's shangri-la.

It has dimmed the lights of Brooklyn's wacky wonderland. It has doomed a peacetime institution which made the resort famous when Palm Beach was a sandbar—the famous five-cent hot dog.

The new price—mustard still on the house—is six and at some stands seven cents. Ice cream cones are up by the same margin. But the nickel subway fare still stands, and last Sunday 275,000 to 300,000 persons thronged Coney's sideshows, whirligigs and merry-go-rounds, a large crowd for so early in the season.

The figure cheered concessionaires who had feared the effect on the fun of the nightly dimout—ordered so ships at sea would not be silhouetted against the glare and thus become targets for enemy submarines.

Operators were hopeful they could avoid a complete blackout, but they are opening at noon instead of 1 p. m., and have begun a campaign to lure the public to Coney earlier in the day.

The Steeplechase, older of the island's two big amusement parks, will operate with only two or three per cent of its normal lighting, said Edward Tilyou, managing director.

"We usually have 60,000 lights," he said. "That'd mean we'd have only about 1,200 or 1,800."

Both Tilyou and his brother, Frank, are hopeful that Coney will continue to draw its mid-summer Sunday crowd of more than 1,000,000, which on hot days make the choked beach look like a gigantic can of happy, perspiring sardines.

"With the tire shortage," explained Frank Tilyou, "we expect people who haven't been here for years."

MacArthur Words Show Fleet Ready For More Japanese

defeat on the Japs in the battle of the Coral Sea then the threat to our communications will be relieved, the Australians will have far less cause to fear invasion, and the striking power of the American base in Australia will increase rapidly until we have reached the happy day when we can launch a full-blown offensive.

That offensive, by the way, would come a great deal sooner as the result of a naval disaster to the Japanese in the present engagement.

Then there is another important point which we must overlook. The Japanese have had numerical naval superiority in the Pacific. Thus if they should manage to inflict heavy losses on us in the Coral Sea battle, they might be able to claim an immediate advantage even though their own losses were larger. That is to say, any serious lessening of our naval striking power might enable the Japs to embark on fresh projects.

The fly in the ointment for Japan, however, is that despite any immediate success they will be beaten in the long run because of our superior resources and facilities for production. Japan cannot build ships either naval or cargo, at the rate at which they have been sunk since the war started. Sooner or later they must crack up.

Bennett Would Be the Candidate

Attorney General Would Accept Nomination

New York, May 9 (AP)—The 1942 gubernatorial campaign was officially under way today with a statement from Attorney General John J. Bennett, Jr., of Brooklyn that he would accept the Democratic nomination if offered.

Bennett's announcement, following Governor Herbert H. Lehman's decision not to seek re-election, praised the governor "for the great service he has rendered, at much sacrifice to himself, during his matchless career."

Concerning his own candidacy, the attorney general said: "Of course as long as there was any prospect the governor might run again I would not permit my name to be suggested, but if the members of my party sponsor me this fall, I will do my best to merit their confidence."

James A. Farley, chairman of the Democratic State Committee, would not comment on the Bennett announcement but there were indications of immediate support for the attorney general. Irwin Steinberg of Brooklyn, Democratic Leader of the Assembly, reported he was backing Bennett and the Nassau County Democratic Committee endorsed him.

Meanwhile reports persisted that President Roosevelt's choice was Owen D. Young, former chairman of the General Electric Co.

There also were reports that former District Attorney Thomas E. Dewey would launch his campaign for the Republican nomination at a meeting of the Republican Women of Greater New York today.

The State Executive committee of the American Labor Party has been called into session for next Wednesday to discuss the gubernatorial campaign.

MacArthur Says Jap Fleet Flees

toward the south and southeast." The communique said Allied scouting planes spotted Japanese warships and troop transports massing in the islands north of Australia several days ago.

"Our naval forces then attacked in interceptions," the communique went on.

"They were handled with marked skill, fought with admirable courage and tenacity, and the enemy has been repulsed."

"Our attacks will continue." Thus Gen. MacArthur officially countered the Tokyo claim that Japanese warships "caught and attacked" the Allies, and also gave a clear implication that the U. S. battle squadrons, supported by Australian units, were pursuing the battered enemy.

Australians Are Jubilant

While Allied headquarters went no further in indicating victory, Australian newspapers jubilantly proclaimed a resounding triumph.

"All the news smacks strongly of a big victory," declared the Sydney Daily Telegraph.

Australia's Prime Minister John Curtin, who yesterday spoke darkly of "a sterner ordeal and greater and graver responsibilities" if the Japanese fleet won, commented on a brighter note today.

"We can be proud of what has been done. More than that, we can be grateful for it."

In Washington, the navy announced that details of losses and damage to the predominantly American naval forces engaged in the historic battle were not yet fully known.

Imperial Tokyo headquarters acknowledged only that a "small-sized Japanese aircraft carrier converted from a tanker" had been sunk. It said 89 Allied planes had been shot down, against a loss of 31 Japanese aircraft.

Citing these reported successes, Admiral Sanchichi Takahashi told newsmen in Tokyo: "The fate of Australia seems to have been sealed, and her days seem to be very much numbered."

The Japanese command had previously listed the sinking of a 32,600-ton U. S. battleship California class, the 33,000-ton U. S. aircraft carrier Saratoga and the 19,900-ton U. S. aircraft carrier Yorktown.

It also claimed heavy damage to a 30,600-ton British battleship (Warspite class), which was officially denied by the admiralty in London, and to a 10,000-ton Australian cruiser (Canberra type).

All these now have been branded as fictitious by Gen. MacArthur. Allied headquarters gave this accounting:

Japanese ships sunk—An aircraft carrier, two cruisers, two destroyers, four gunboats, two transports or cargo ships.

Japanese ships damaged—An aircraft carrier, two cruisers, a seaplane tender, two transports or cargo ships.

Unofficial reports said the second enemy aircraft carrier, officially claimed only as damaged, was hit by torpedoes, burst into flames and later sank.

In London, British newspapers joyously greeted the news of the Allied victory, and the Daily Mail commented that it answered the question the world had been asking for months: "Where is the American fleet?"

Official Washington figures disclosed Japan's sea losses in the Pacific since Pearl Harbor totaled 253 ships, aggregating more than 250,000 tons.

Other world-wide developments: India—Japanese warplanes twice attacked India, bombing and machine-gunning the strategic port city of Chittagong on the heels of unconfirmed Axis reports that Japanese troops had already crossed the border into India.

Chittagong, 165 miles northwest of Japanese-occupied Akyab, Burma, would be a logical goal in any Japanese attempt to invade India by sea.

Burma—A Tokyo broadcast asserted that Japanese troops driving into far northern Burma occupied Myittha, 280 miles north of Mandalay, "without bloodshed."

Myittha, northern terminus of the Rangoon-Mandalay railroad, is 80 miles northwest of Bhamo, which the Japanese reported yesterday they had captured.

Madagascar—The German-controlled Paris radio asserted that fighting was continuing on two fronts in Madagascar, despite Wednesday's surrender of the big Diego Suarez naval base at the north end of the 1,000-mile-long French island. (There was no confirmation of this report elsewhere.)

The broadcast said 12 British planes had been shot down.

Russian front—A Soviet broadcast reported that more than 60,000 Germans had been killed and wounded on the Leningrad front during March and April alone, and said that the long-besieged northern metropolis had not been pro-

United Kingdom Taxes

No taxes are imposed by the United Kingdom on either colonies or dominions. This is true also of war expenses. Financial contributions of British colonies to the war effort have been in the form of free gifts for the purchase of fighting aircraft, etc. The Dominions are independent members of the British Commonwealth of nations. Their whole war effort, financial and otherwise, is entirely voluntary. Their financial support of the war has been chiefly in the form of (a) loans to Great Britain; and (b) in supplying their own materials. As allies of the United Nations they have sent armies to the various fronts and they tax themselves to maintain these armies.

Choir Climaxes Year
With Fine Concert

Climaxing a year of choral music work and awards, the Kingston High School A Cappella Choir last evening presented one of the finest concerts of choral composition heard recently at the high school. Under the direction of Leonard Stine, the high school students displayed remarkable ability in choral technique. The parts were well-balanced and the alto part was distinctive with its blending of voices into one well-rounded quality.

The dignified setting of the stage with palm groupings and a background of a large American flag typified the entire spirit of the production. The concert was opened with the "Star Spangled Banner" and a group of religious selections. Among these were Bach's "All Breathing Life, Sing and Praise Ye the Lord" with its fugue arrangement for the parts. This was followed by Brahms' "Grant Unto Me the Joy of Thy Salvation."

Undoubtedly one of the outstanding numbers on last evening's program was "The Creation" by Richter, in which the singers tell the story of the creation, building to a great crescendo in the harmonic passage, "Let There be Light." Another popular song was "Joshua Fit de Battle of Jericho" by Cain with its decided rhythm. The most cheerful number was the Jugo-Slav Folk Song, "The Peasant and His Oxen" in which the parts vie in telling the problems of driving teams of oxen. The choir chose the Choral and Finale from Wagner's "Die Meistersinger" for its important selection and creditably mastered the ingenious style of interwoven melodies.

There were two groups of solo selections sung by members of the organization who are among the leading singers. All of these students show careful training in their various stages of development and several have promising natural voices. The soloists were the Misses Shirley Riehl, Elaine Rich, Roberta Hotelling, Jessie Kaprielian and Douglas Mathews, Henry Hopper, Alan Vogt, and Lewis Roosa.

The concert was appropriately brought to a close with the singing of Malotte's "The Lord's Prayer." For an encore the choir sang, "All in the April Evening," the well-known anthem expressed last night in a tender consoling interpretation.

Those who participated in the choir concert were: Sopranos—Beverly Bonestell, Hilda Brown, Virginia Crawford, Anne Cuff, Harriet Emig, Winifred Entrott, Bessie Ewing, Mary Kay, Winifred Kimball, Phyllis Levy, Alberta Loughran, Hilda Marshall, Inez McClements, Fanny Modica, Carolyn Morehouse, Betty Murphy, Barbara Norton, Bernice O'Brien, Elaine Rich, Betty Schaefer, Jane Stewart, Vivian Swart, Jean Terwilliger, Anna Van Deusen, and Dorothy Van Etten.

Committee Arranges for Hymn Festival

REV. HERBERT GREENLAND

REV. H. VICTOR KANE

REV. RUSSELL GAENZLE

With the arrival in Kingston today of Dr. H. Augustine Smith of Boston University, all is now in readiness for the great all-city interdenominational hymn festival and pageant at St. James Methodist Church tomorrow evening. It will serve as a fitting climax to the local celebration of National Music Week.

The program, which is scheduled for 8 o'clock, will begin with a grand procession of all of the participating choirs, and will end with a colorful pageant sequence entitled "Mother Church and the Seven-Branch Candle Stick." Twenty-six young ladies from several of the uptown churches will take part in this part of the program. The main body of the festival is called "A Hymn for Every Century," and Dr. Smith conducts his audience on a swiftly moving tour of the whole history of the Christian church through the medium of great hymns. Some of these hymns will be sung by the congregation, and others, in various interesting arrangements, by the choir of 200 singers.

The churches which have definitely pledged singers for this choir are as follows: St. James Methodist, Clinton Avenue Methodist,

MISS JEAN ESTEY

Trinity Methodist, Fair Street Reformed, First Reformed, Reformed Church of the Comforter, Lutheran Church of the Redeemer, First Presbyterian, Rondout Presbyterian, Albany Avenue

Baptist, St. John's Episcopal, Hurley Reformed, and Flatbush Reformed. Other churches not listed here will also contribute individual singers. The choir will rehearse with Dr. Smith this evening at 7:30 o'clock at St. James Methodist Church.

Preceding the festival, Dr. Smith will make three other appearances tomorrow, conducting the opening worship service of the First Baptist Sunday school at 9:45 o'clock, preaching at the First Reformed Church at 10:50 o'clock, and showing his "Temple of Religious Art," a tenth of a mile of beautiful pictures in the Lutheran Church of the Redeemer at 2:30 p. m. Following the showing of the pictures he will conduct an informal round-table discussion on "Ways of Improving Church and Sunday School Music." Churches having special problems along these lines are especially invited to send representatives to this meeting.

Dr. Smith's visit to Kingston is sponsored by the Ministerial Association of Kingston and vicinity, and arrangements have been perfected by a special committee composed of the Rev. Herbert C. Greenland, the Rev. H. Victor Kane, the Rev. Russell S. Gaenzle, and Miss Jean Estey.

Art Is Exhibited
At High School

In addition to the music, the patrons of the A Cappella Choir concert last evening were given the opportunity to view some of the work done by the art classes in the high school. The display included work from the most elementary design procedures to the advanced work of the upper classes.

On exhibition were attractive all-over designs representing peoples of different lands, border designs, the development from naturalistic to conventional and abstract designs of objects and lettering. In one display were original poster compositions expressing various studies and topics at school. Several of these grouped instruments used in the physics classes, materials of the geometry student and sport items. One used brilliantly colored letters jumbled together but spelling out the simple idea of lettering.

In the advanced drawing classes were some excellent water colors and drawings in still life. Portraits of President Roosevelt and Bob Hope were easily recognized and a detailed drawing of the high school was also shown. The composition in the perspective picture exhibit was interesting as were articles signed by the students in the class. The use of light and shadow in the pencil and charcoal drawings were worthy of comment and a water color picture of a telegraph set with pad drew attention through the message written down for a singing telegram to one Adolf H. message, "I'll be glad when you're dead youascal you."

KINGSTON HIGH SCHOOL AUDITORIUM

"MY MOTHER"

I wish that I could tell you mother, in words sincere and true, Just what my wishes are, my dear, When this day comes to you. Mere words could not express the things I hope for you this day. They leave too much unsaid of all the things I'd like to say. I wish that I could send to you o'er the ocean's foamy tide A touch of the finer, deeper things that stir within my side; But it's not for a puny writer with talents such as mine To reach the depths and heart of man and that story to define. I wish that I could write the words, that I could tell you how I've always wished for you the best, of how I wish it now. I wish that I could find the words for the story I'd like to tell; That I could express to you, dear, all the wishes you merit well. I wish that I could write them down the way that they should go. Oh, if that story would come out, it only wishes would flow. I wish that I could speak to you with the touch of my caress, For I know that then you would not need the words I can't express. The wishes, the hopes, the pleasures, that, alas, I can not write down, Are ones that reverberate deeply in mankind the whole world round. They come from the depths within one, with a rising, surging call. And they go to you, my Mother, the dearest Mother of all.

EDW. M. SANGALINE

Save your car. Stretch your legs!

POLITE—While we were waiting for a traffic light the other night, we read an interesting sign on the back of one of those huge cross country trucks:

This truck stops for all R. R. crossings, redheads and brunettes—and we will back up 1/2 mile for a blonde.

Realist—I know, we have just the house you want—without a flaw. Prospect—But what will we walk on.

It has been rumored that one of our enterprising businessmen is making plans for erecting a livery stable.

The bridegroom, who was in a horribly nervous condition, appeared to the minister in a loud whisper at the close of the ceremony.

Bridegroom—Is is kinastory to cuss the bride? Minister—Not yet, but soon.

Automobile owners have long been victims of tire thieves, and have had to resort to locks, chains, etc., to thwart them. With the new regulations on buying new tires, the thieves will be more than ever a menace. So keep an eye on your tires.

The Signal Lights

"It is well you stopped when the red light flashed," she said as we drove along.

"For an officer stood at the corner there, in charge of the traffic throng."

And I smiled and said to my daughter fair, as we waited on the spot,

"I always stop when the red light shows, be an officer there or not."

Then she sat in thought as we drove along and suddenly she said,

"There ought to be lights for us all thru life—the amber and green and red."

What help 'twould be if a red light flashed when danger and shame were near.

And we all might wait till the green light came to show that the road was clear.

"My dear," said I "we have tried to light life's road for your feet to fare."

And we pray you'll stop when the red light glows, though none of us may be there.

We have tried to teach you the signs of wrong and the way to a life serene.

So stop when your conscience post shows red—and go when it flashes green."

—Edgar A. Guest

Sergeant (taking particulars of a recruit)—And when were you born?

Recruit—December, 1917.

Sergeant (musing)—Ah, don't I remember that winter. I was bitterly cold.

Recruit (echoing)—Cold! I'll say it was cold. Why, I was brought by a penguin—the sork couldn't make it.

There seems to be plenty of rules for success, but none at all for failure. This must be because it doesn't take any.

Junior was the oldest child of an already numerous family of small boys and girls. He had been invited to go in and see his new little baby sister. Asked by his father what he thought of the newest baby, he said: "Why, dad, it's very nice. But do you think we needed it?"

Bennett Is Endorsed

Mineola, N. Y., May 8 (AP)—The Nassau County Democratic Executive Committee endorsed Attorney General John J. Bennett, Jr., last night as candidate for governor, to succeed Governor Lehman, who announced he would not be a candidate.

Navy Relief Appeal

The Naval Relief Society appeal for funds to carry on its work of aiding families of men of the Navy, including the Marines and Coast Guard, deserves the generous support of all residents. More Naval men were killed at Pearl Harbor than in the first World War and the toll of death is mounting.

Pertinent Facts On Conscription

Many selective service registrants who have been deferred from military service solely because they have dependents will eventually be inducted unless they become engaged in activities essential to the nation's war effort, Brigadier General Ames T. Brown, New York state director of selective service, declared today.

"We are rapidly approaching the stage where everyone must be working or fighting to win the war," General Brown asserted.

"Right now local boards are reconsidering all registrants with dependency deferments for two major purposes. The first is to eliminate from this class all men who cannot prove that their dependents need their earned income for support in a reasonable manner and all who cannot prove that they did not acquire dependents to avoid military service. The second purpose is to distinguish between men who have dependents but are not engaged in activities aiding the nation's war effort and those who are contributing to the victory by their work as civilians.

"By making this distinction between those engaged in essential activities and those whose civilian occupations are not contributing to the war effort, it is desired to induce a voluntary movement of the latter into essential activities and thus to release for military service men without dependents who must be deferred as 'necessary men' until they can be replaced at their work."

Persons engaged in nonessential activities, however, should not cease their present employment until their services are needed in some essential activity, General Brown warned. He said:

"This voluntary movement from nonessential to essential activities should be a gradual, orderly, and economically sound transfer of manpower. The federal government will make known, from time to time, the opportunities for training and employment in activities essential to the war effort so that this shift of employment may be made without unnecessary disturbance to the welfare of the community, the family, and the individual. Each individual registrant, however, knows or should inquire into his own capabilities and the opportunities for employment in war industry, and should seek such employment without waiting for specific instructions from the government."

When men with dependents are considered for military service, it was emphasized, local boards will have regard for occupation together with the degree of dependency. Registrants who have the greatest degree of dependency, such as a dependent wife and children will be the last group sought for military service, he said, provided that they have become necessary men in war production or supporting activities.

Calls Talk Premature

New York, May 8 (AP)—Dr. Jan Masaryk, Czechoslovakian minister of foreign affairs, said today that talk of a second front in Europe at this time was premature.

"We should not kid ourselves that we can start a second front as easily as snapping our fingers," he told the second world congress of the International Free World Association. "The failure of a second front would be a great blow to the cause of democracies, and therefore we should not encourage the peoples of occupied countries to expect the impossible at this time."

Musicians Have Joined Air Forces

Many Players Formerly in Big Dance Bands

Masters of the trombone, clarinet, French horn and sax—"hot senders" and "sweet swingers" alike—are leaving the ballroom and nightclub for the duration, and marching off to join the army air forces.

Seventy-eight air forces band units have already been formed and their ranks are bright with talent from America's orchestral world.

Typical of this musical growth is The Air Forces Band at Bolling Field, Washington, D. C.

Largest of the army air forces band units, and directly representing the commanding general, this organization began its official military life on September 24, 1941, under Lieutenant Colonel L. P. Holcomb, Air Corps, commanding officer of the Air Base Group at Bolling Field.

On November 8, 1941, the band consisted of only four men, led by Warrant Officer Alf Heiberg. Now it has 45 pieces, soon to be increased to 48. Among its members may be found former representatives of such orchestras as those of Dick Stabile, Tony Pastor, Layton Bailey, Bunny Berrigan, Claude Thornhill and Jimmy Dorsey. Three former band instructors are also in the group.

Band members—when not training, rehearsing, marching with troops, or giving concerts under the tireless eye of Mr. Heiberg—proclaim themselves "the best band in the army or anywhere else" and try to devise ways to prove it.

This opinion is held with no less conviction by the air forces officers in charge. Colonel Holcomb, has been known in his off-duty hours to sit in with his band and send with a saxophone himself.

Members of the band must undergo the basic training of the soldier and when assigned to band duty, continue training in other phases of military life. Musicians at Bolling Field, most of whom hold non-commissioned officer grades, have their own barracks and a rehearsal room wherein they work daily.

Every morning the enlisted men comprising work details at Bolling Field are marched in formation from their barracks to hangars and other points. These details are escorted by the band, whose music lends snap and rhythm to an otherwise routine drill, making it, in the opinion of officers, a valuable supplement to the general training program.

The Air Forces Band also regularly gives concerts for the men of Bolling Field when weather permits. Gives many public concerts, broadcast from Washington, and participates in general army celebrations.

Still another duty of the band is that of playing for dances. Within the group are two twelve-piece dance orchestras, likewise organized by Warrant Officer Heiberg.

China recently placed war orders in India totaling over $5,000,000.

then, that I ought to limit my driving as much as possible; that I ought to use my car only when it is absolutely essential. Is that right?

A. Correct. In the first place, you're very likely going to have to make those tires last a long long time. And you should realize, too, that oil, in this war is ammunition; that you ought to use it wisely. By doing so, you'll be helping to speed the defeat of Hitler and Hirohito.

Reno Has a Marriage Boom, Too

Wide World Features

Reno, Nev.—Should soldiers, sailors and marines marry?

"Sure," says Reno's county clerk, Edward H. Beemer, 64. "If they have wives, they've got something to fight for and they'll get the war over sooner so they can return to their little women."

"Not only that," Beemer declares, "but our service men are entitled to know their happiness of married life before going overseas where they may be killed or maimed."

Apparently the doughboys, blue-jackets and leathernecks agree because a steady stream of service men flows into the county clerk's office for marriage licenses. Rotund, good-natured "Boss" Beemer goes out of his way to put into practice what he preaches.

He Works Overtime

For those who can't be at the office during regular weekday hours, Beemer has added Sunday, holiday and night office hours. At least two judges co-operate. They perform the simple civil ceremony without charge for men in uniform.

Service men and civilians have caused an increase of about 33 per cent in the number of licenses issued here since Pearl Harbor. Thousands of boys in the armed services are stationed in California but their home towns are in all parts of the United States. Girls from the east, midwest and far west often have Reno marriage rendezvous with home town sweethearts stationed at west coast bases.

California has a three day wait and health examination law which makes it impossible for spur of the moment weddings. Result: The boys and their brides - to - be come to Nevada where they can be married in a matter of minutes.

60,000 Foreseen

Last year 43,775 persons were married in this Carson City town which has a permanent population of only 22,000. If the present trend is any indication, about 60,000 persons will be married in Reno this year.

Florists, jewelers, nightclubs and hotels are vigorous supporters of Nevada's liberal marriage laws which attracts California couples—and money.

While the marriage boom means more money for the town's merchants, it means more work for Boss Beemer.

He receives no additional pay for the extra time he puts in, but he says he likes to serve the young people. Besides, the county gets two bucks every time a license is issued.

First Vermont Flag Was The Stars and Stripes

The first Vermont flag of which there is any record was the Stars and Stripes, with the addition of the word "Vermont." This was adopted by act of legislature in 1803, according to information obtained in the course of research work done on the origin and form of the Vermont flag at the Wilbur Library in the Fleming Museum of the University of Vermont. There have been four different Vermont flags, an act of the Vermont legislature in 1837 providing for a second flag, which was unchanged until 1919.

The flag which was established in 1919 lasted only four years, and in 1923 the legislature provided for the present Vermont flag, which is blue and carries the coat of arms of the state. It is considered strange that during the years Vermont was an independent commonwealth, from 1777 to 1791, as far as is possible to discover—there was no state flag—this at a time at which "pomp and ceremony of war and of civil state" was by no means disregarded.

The second Vermont flag was decreed to be 13 stripes, alternate red and white, with one large star, white in a blue field and the coat of arms of the State of Vermont therein. This remained the state flag of Vermont until 1919.

Navy Relief Appeal

The Naval Relief Society appeal for funds to carry on its work of aiding families of men of the Navy, including the Marines and Coast Guard, deserves the generous support of all residents. More than 100,000 men were killed at Pearl Harbor than in the first World War and the toll of death is mounting.

YOU NEVER get rich in the army, but you can get hitched in Reno. Soldiers, sailors and marines stand in line like this to get their marriage licenses. Reno has no physical examination or delay law.

War Chokes Off U. S. Spice Supply —But You Can't Win By Hoarding

Wide World Features

Washington—American history began with the search for spices 450 years ago, but today we wonder—spice is nice, but is it necessary? Christopher Columbus accidentally discovered this country while seeking a western route to the spice lands.

Now the United States must embark on explorations, both geographic and scientific, to maintain the flavoring of its food. Enemy armies and submarines have added spices to the rubber, tea and countless other products no longer available.

At present there is no shortage of spices, nor is one likely soon. But the United States did import an average of 114 million pounds of spices a year, and these have been practically cut off.

Household hoarding won't help. Spices disintegrate into dust when left around for a long time, especially on warm pantry shelves.

Mrs. Average Jones doesn't go in for a great variety of spices.

nor does she "spike" her preparations heavily. Her favorite seasonings are pepper, of which she uses most by far, mustard, cinnamon, vanilla, cloves, nutmegs and ginger.

Except for mustard, none of Mrs. Jones' spices can be grown in this country. Pepper comes almost exclusively from India, now in the shadow of the rising sun.

Ceylon is the home of true cinnamon. What Mrs. Jones calls cinnamon is really cassia, which grows in the East Indies and in China.

From our own hemisphere come vanilla beans from Mexico, all-spice and ginger from Jamaica, mustard from California and Montana.

Treatment Prevents Waste

A point which defense authorities are stressing in the Victory Garden campaign, is that seed, especially vegetable seed, must not be wasted. One of the most important measures to prevent this is the treatment of seed by disinfectants which destroy the bacteria and fungi which often kill many seedling plants.

Because of these pests amateur and even professional florists and market gardeners have many failures with flowers and vegetables. They cause seeds to decay in the plant bed and young seedlings to die a few days after emergence.

Science has proved that many forms of seed decay, seedling damping-off, and other plant ailments are due to infections by fungi (molds) and bacteria (germs). These microscopic organisms living on the seed and in the soil attack the germinating seeds and seedlings; the result is a poor stand of weak plants, which is often incorrectly attributed to poor seed. Investigations reveal that over 500 different kinds of disease organisms or germs are commonly carried by flowers, vegetable and farm crop seeds.

Seed treatment is the only successful method of combating most seed-borne diseases. After infection of the seedling plants has occurred, there is little that can be done to check the disease. As these parasitic organisms are carried on nearly all seeds and bulbs, disinfection provides an economical and effective means of preventing many of the diseases caused by them.

SEED DISINFECTANTS MAY BE APPLIED AS A DUST TO THE SEED

OR MADE INTO SOLUTIONS AND THE SEED SOAKED IN THEM

There are a number of effective seed disinfectants for controlling surface seed-carried plant diseases. Some of these products are applied as a dust to the seed. Others are made into solutions and the seeds are soaked in them.

There is no danger to the seed in giving this treatment, provided the simple directions are followed. No amateur need have any fear of undertaking it. Information about the best disinfectants may be obtained for seedmen, from state experiment stations, from the Bureau of Information of the Department of Agriculture in Washington or from the many garden centers and information bureaus which will be established to promote the Victory Garden campaign.

First Commercially Successful Boat
Historians differ as to the real importance of the contributions made by Robert Fulton to the development of steam navigation. The authors of American school histories, after paying scant tribute to the earlier work of John Fitch, usually credit the invention of the steamboat to Fulton. Many writers who have dealt with the subject more extensively are inclined to represent Fulton as an opportunist who originated nothing, but who discovered ways of exploiting the inventions of others in a successful business enterprise.

The truth probably lies between these extremes, writes W. Mack Angus in "Technology Review." Beyond question, the Clermont was the first commercially successful steamboat, and honor is due to Fulton for building her and proving that the steamboat could be something more than an interesting novelty.

On the other hand, it is now generally appreciated that Fulton did not invent but improved and developed the steamboat. Furthermore, the work of his predecessors and contemporaries gave him a rather broad foundation upon which to build.

THEY'VE HAD THEIR QUOTA

It was bound to happen somewhere. Steve, 1, and Judy, 2, of Oklahoma City, ate the ration book of their mother, Mrs. Harold Colvert. The county rationing board averted a Colvert sugar famine by furnishing another ration book. Mrs. Colvert watched the new ration book warily as the children posed for this picture with it.

Questions and Answers On Gasoline Rationing

Following are answers to some of the questions an average motorist is likely to ask about the gasoline curtailment program, which becomes effective Thursday in 17 east coast states, the District of Columbia, and in the states of Oregon and Washington:

Q. When I drive into a filling station can I get as much gasoline as I want?

A. Presumably not. Under the quota system, the station will receive less gasoline from its supplier, and so will be under the necessity of curtailing his sales.

Furthermore, stations have been directed to spread their supplies as far as possible and to space them evenly over the month, with the result that the operator very probably will sell you a reduced amount.

Q. How much will I get?

A. That will depend largely upon how your dealer is dividing his available supply. If he is doing it equitably, however, you should be able to get enough to enable you to operate your car without serious difficulty, provided you do what you can to avoid waste, keep your speed within reasonable limits, maintain your car in good mechanical condition, and do not drive needlessly.

Q. Am I being rationed so far as my use of gasoline is concerned?

A. Technically, no. But your dealer is. His supplies have been curtailed. And you can help him get along on the reduced amounts of gasoline he now can get—and help the war effort, too—by accepting, willingly, any cut he may make in deliveries to you.

Q. Will I be able to buy gasoline any hour of the day or night?

A. You ought always to be able to find at least one station open in your community, particularly in a city. This is so because stations may choose their own operating hours, so long as they deliver gasoline during only 12 hours in any one day, and during only 72 hours in any one week.

Q. Does this mean, then, that dealers may stagger their hours? Say, open from 6 a. m. until 12 noon; close until 4 p. m., and then reopen until 10 p. m.?

A. Yes. It was decided that each operator should be allowed to adjust his hours in a manner that would best meet the demands of his customers.

Q. How about Sunday closing?

A. This is up to the individual operator. If he wants to close on Sundays he may do so. General closing of stations on Sunday will doubtless result.

Q. Then there is no ban on Sunday driving?

A. None whatever. In some instances Sunday travel may be more essential than on any other day of the week. However, non-essential driving should be discouraged in view of the critical supply situation.

Q. Was the curtailment of approximately 20 per cent in deliveries to station operators ordered because there is a shortage of gasoline in the United States?

A. Absolutely not. The fact is that storage tanks are brim-full in Gulf Coast and other refinery centers. The problem is a lack of transportation to haul petroleum and petroleum products to the eastern states and to the Pacific Northwest. A number of the tankers which normally supply these areas have been sunk and many others have been diverted to war service. It is necessary, therefore, to stretch present supplies as far as possible.

Q. Is anything being done to provide substitute transportation?

A. There most certainly is. During the week ended March 7, alone, all companies shipped an average of 435,000 barrels of oil daily to the East Coast by tank car, despite the fact that the cost is much greater than by tanker. Tank cars also are beginning to move increasingly from the California refineries into Oregon and Washington.

Q. Does this mean that the supply problem in the affected areas will be solved shortly?

A. That all depends on what happens to our remaining tankers and also on the added extent to which overland movement can be built up in lieu of waterborne shipments. Remember, too, that emphasis is being placed on moving fuel oils to the important industrial centers of the nation; that fuel oil is needed to keep the factories turning out the vital munitions of war.

Q. From that, it would seem,

Erosion — Enemy of America's Farmlands

UNPROTECTED against spring water runoff, this hill became badly eroded when tons of topsoil slid away. Experts say hilltop planting could have prevented the condition. The hill, located near Spokane, Wash., is typical of erosion in many parts of the country.

Wide World Features

Over thousands of acres of farm land throughout the United States, soil experts and conservationists are battling one of nature's worst menaces—soil erosion.

Improper tillage, failure to plant trees or binding grasses, and water runoffs are the chief causes of extensive erosion. It has rendered useless hundreds of acres of rolling lands that once were fertile.

Pough tillage—the plowing under of heavy refuse from wheat and pea crops—hilltop planting, tree and grass planting and the control of water runoffs are urged upon farmers by state and federal agencies.

New War, But Same Old D'Oyly Carte

By RUSSELL LANDSTROM

Wide World Features

London—Like the grief-ridden but eventually triumphant heroes of the comic operas themselves, the durable D'Oyly Carte Company has prevailed against dolor and adversity to continue regaling wartime British audiences with Gilbert and Sullivan.

Neither blitzkrieg nor bad weather, the dislocation of travel facilities nor food shortage has put any real crimp in the show. And after completing another swing around the provinces the company returns to London in June for a long summer stay.

It will be no ordinary revisiting of the capital this time, for the troupe is going into Prince's theatre, seat of its great growing conquest soon after the end of the last war. Many Londoners are now calling to remembrance September of 1919, when the city witnessed what amounted to the rebirth of the D'Oyly Carte company here.

Twins New To London

Except for occasional suburban performances there hadn't been a London season of Gilbert and Sullivan's airy mimeries since the Nineties. It was a step into jeopardy made more hazardous by the circumstances that Prince's theatre is unusually large and that only provincial and suburban audiences really knew the company.

The response, however, was as unexpected as it was welcome. The opening was akin to a Hollywood dream. "Just like the fair," remarked one who saw the lines of people hopeful day after day of getting seats. The company played at Prince's until the following spring.

Schedule Nearly Intact

This time the D'Oyly Carte company is bringing all but four of the Gilbert and Sullivan repertory—"Ruddigore," "Pinafore," "Princess Ida" and "The Sorcerer"—because of currently irreplaceable materials lost in air raids, and in spite of the loss of 20 to 25 persons to the armed services.

Prompt to appreciate the morale value in the company's contributions, governmental agencies have lent a hand in smoothing its wartime way. Thus at least partly relieved of worry, the company

Huge Cargo Planes Are Being Built

Mass Production of C-46 Is Underway; Army Gives No Further Details

New York, May 9 (AP)—Giant cargo-troop transport planes which can be flown from the continental United States to "any point where they may be needed"—Cairo, Russia or Australia—are now in mass production.

Declining to discuss the specific speed, range and payload, army men would reveal no other details of the new C-46, although the airplane division of the Curtiss-Wright Corp. said 21 C-46's could do the transportation job of 4,500 trucks on the Burma road in three hops a day.

It was said the new planes have "more than twice the payload capacity" of the 21-passenger DC-3 airliners and are powered with two Wright twin-row engines of "substantially more than 1,000 horsepower each."

The C-46 is a military version of the huge transport liner CW-20, which was flown to England recently for transport missions throughout the British empire. Figures on the CW-20, made available when the big ship completed its trans-Atlantic hop in nine hours and 40 minutes, showed a wingspan of 108 feet and a weight of 50,000 pounds loaded.

The C-46 was designed to carry large numbers of completely equipped troops, field artillery or army jeeps. The ship was given its ground tests at the Curtiss plant in Buffalo.

Agriculture is the leading productive activity of Guatemala and coffee the chief money crop, says the Department of Commerce.

New York, May 9 (AP)—The war news was on the side of the stock market today and leading issues were bid up fractions to more than a point.

Wall Street sentiment brightened perceptibly on word from General MacArthur's headquarters that the Japanese invasion fleet had been repulsed in the big battle of the Coral Sea.

The victory theme inspired considerable nervousness among the shorts and covering by many in this category, as well as a little fresh speculative and investment buying, put props under the market at the start. Dealings, lively for a while, slowed near the final hour.

Bonds were higher and commodities mixed.

Among advancing stocks were U. S. Steel, Bethlehem, du Pont, General Motors, American Telephone, Westinghouse, American Can, Standard Oil (N. J.), J. C. Penney, American Tobacco, "B," Anaconda, General Electric, Eastman Kodak, United Aircraft, Glenn Martin, American Airlines and Sears Roebuck. Chrysler registered another new 1942 top.
